POSTAL REGULATORY COMMISSION

Dear Commissioners:

I am writing this letter and forwarding it to you via our U.S. Postal System to add my name to the list of people against Louis DeJoy's current policies toward our Post Office as well as the 10 year plan he is promoting.

I am a retired elementary school teacher in the Los Angeles area and one who has relied even more on the Post Office during the covid-19 pandemic to deliver my medications. Delivery meant I didn't need to go to a local pharmacy thus limiting my exposure to the virus.

It is obvious to me that DeJoy got his position because he was a major contributor to a campaign. This was reinforced by the changes to postal policies upon taking the job such as:

Cutting back overtime hours

Removing postal boxes for collecting mail

Removing and destroying expensive sorting machines

Why would someone do such things? The answer to me and many others is that he is trying to destroy the Post Office so that private companies like the one he is currently a board member and shareholder could expand. I understand that they currently have a contract with USPS. So it seems it is "all about the money, money, money". Save the U.S. Postal System from his greed.

Sincerely,

Carol S. Kert
